INTER-DEPARTMENT MEMORANDUM

To: Scott Stiles
Dept: City Manager
Subject: INVESTMENT REPORT
FOR JANUARY 2017

From: Kingsley Okereke
Dept: Finance
Date: February 21, 2017

Enclosed is the January 2017 Investment Report which shows the financial institutions, types of investment instruments, monthly transactions, current month interest received, and the par and fair market value of investments held. The month-end cash in the bank and petty cash balances are also listed on the Cash and Investment Report. The pie chart (please see chart on attachment A) reflects the investment instruments as a percentage of the total portfolio.

This investment portfolio meets State guidelines and adheres to the City's investment policy. As of January 2017, the City's total portfolio is invested in:

Type of Investment	Total Investment	% of Investment
US Treasury	$42,000,000	18.579%
Fed Home Loan Banks	$39,250,000	17.362%
Fed Farm Credit Banks	$25,500,000	11.280%

The cash with fiscal agents is restricted as they are funds held and invested by an outside fiscal agent. The restrictions were set forth in the related bond indentures. As of January 2017, 10.690% of the portfolio is restricted.

In summary, the investment portfolio is secured and the City has the necessary cash to pay its bills for six months in a timely manner. Please call me at extension #5060 if you have any questions.

Memorandum

DATE: March 2, 2017
TO: Member Agencies – MWDOC Divisions Two & Three FROM: Larry Dick, Director – Division Two
Wayne S. Osborne, Director – Division Three
SUBJECT: Monthly Water Usage Data, Tier 2 Projection & Water Supply Information

The attached figures show the recent trend of water consumption in Orange County (OC), an estimate of Tier 2 volume for MWDOC, and selected water supply information.

- Fig. 1 OC Water Usage, Monthly by Supply OCWD Groundwater water was the main supply in January.
- Fig. 2 OC Water Usage, Monthly, Comparison to Previous Years Water usage in January 2017 was well below average compared to the last 5 years. Lower usage is primarily due to the significant amounts of rainfall received in Orange County in January (Over 9 Inches in Santa Ana). In June 2016, all water conservation became voluntary for MWDOC agencies.
- Fig. 3 Historical OC Water Consumption OC water consumption is projected to be 518,000 AF in FY 2016-17 (this includes ~15 TAF of agricultural usage and non-retail water agency usage). This is about 25,000 AF more than FY 2015-16 and is about 53,000 AF less than FY 2014-15. Water usage per person is projected to be slightly higher than in FY 2016-17 for Orange County at 146 gallons per day (This includes recycled water). Although OC population has increased 20% over the past two decades, water usage has not increased, on average. A long-term decrease in per-capita water usage is attributed mostly to Water Use Efficiency (water conservation) efforts.
- Fig. 4 MWDOC "Firm" Water Purchases, 2016 "Firm" water above the Tier 1 limit will be charged at the higher Tier 2 rate. Tier 2 purchases are zero in 2017.

Water Supply Information Includes data on: Rainfall in OC; the OCWD Basin overdraft; Northern California and Colorado River Basin hydrologic data; the State Water Project (SWP) Allocation, and regional storage volumes. The data has implications for the magnitude of supplies from the three watersheds that are the principal sources of water for OC. Note that a hydrologic year is Oct. 1st through Sept. 30th.

- Orange County's accumulated rainfall through February was well above average for this period. Orange County has had below average rainfall for the past 5 hydrologic years. La Nina conditions are diminishing and will continue to decline throughout the 2017 spring (La Nina is generally associated with cool dry winters in Southern California). It has been reported that the large ridge of High pressure, which has been blocking storms for the past few years, has dissipated and we are seeing very wet weather this winter in California.
- Northern California accumulated precipitation through February was around 218% of normal for this period. February 2017 rainfall well was above the historical average for that month. The Northern California snowpack is 161% of normal as of February 28th. The State of California has been in a declared Drought Emergency since January 2014. As of late February drought conditions have improved significantly and only 17% of California is still suffering from moderate or severe drought. The State Water Project Contractors initial Table A Allocation is at 60% as of the end of January.
- Colorado River Basin accumulated precipitation through February was 128% average for this period. The Upper Colorado Basin snowpack was 149% of normal as of February 27th. This follows five below-average hydrologic years; the Colorado River Basin is in the recovery of a long-term drought. Lake Mead and Lake Powell combined have about 62% of their average storage volume for this time of year. If Lake Mead's level falls below a "trigger" limit 1,075 ft. at the end of a calendar year, then a shortage will be declared by the US Bureau of Reclamation (USBR), impacting Colorado River water deliveries for the Lower Basin states. As of late February Lake Mead levels were 15' above the "trigger" limit. The USBR predicts that the end of 2017 or the end of 2018 will not hit the "trigger" level.

Notes

- "Firm" includes Full Service (both Treated and Untreated) and Barrier water.
- Basin Pumping Percentage (BPP) is the percentage of a retail water agency's total water demand that they are limited to pump from the OCWD-managed groundwater basin. BPP pertains to Basin agencies only. For example, if a Basin agency's total demand is 10,000 AF/yr and OCWD sets the BPP at 72%, then the agency is limited to 7,200 AF of groundwater that year. There may be certain exceptions and/or adjustments to that simple calculation. OCWD sets the BPP for the Basin agencies, usually as of July 1st.

Open Streets event slated for April 1

It's time to check the air in your bicycle tires and make sure there's enough tread on your walking shoes as the 3rd Annual Open Streets event is set to fill downtown Garden Grove on April 1 with people-powered, well, people.

The idea behind Open Streets is simple: Ban cars and trucks from a section of Garden Grove Boulevard and surrounding streets and let people ride bikes, walk, skate, skip or hop in the freedom that comes when motor vehicles aren't part of the mix.

There'll be art, music, food, beer and wine, as well as exhibits, family activities, giveaways and games. Did I mention beer and wine? OK, just checking.

The event runs from 3-6 p.m. with an after-party on historic Main Street from 6-10 p.m. For information and a map of the 2.5 miles that will be vehicle-free, visit ggopenstreets.com.

It's a single day that's part of a bigger future, as the city works to make it easier, safer and more appealing to bike and walk in Garden Grove. And that's something to which Brainiac is happy to lend our support.

The Westminster Police Department runs a strong Facebook page which provides Brainiac with nice nuggets of news from time to time, including this week an item about a new way the department plans to keep residents informed about crime in their neighborhoods.

Nextdoor.com is a website that allows residents of communities to post information about goings on around their neighborhoods, everything from yard sales and lost-and-found notices to creepers in the bushes trying to break into cars in the middle of the night.

It's that last part that the Westminster police have signed up to share info.

"Hello neighbors," wrote Commander Cameron Knauerhaze, the public information officer for the department, in an introductory post on the site. "I'm excited to let you know that the Westminster Police Department is joining Nextdoor to share information and updates that have a direct impact on your neighborhood.

"Let me assure you that your Nextdoor neighborhood conversation remains private to you and your neighbors; we will only be able to see your replies to our posts, and private messages that you send directly to us," he continued.

"We look forward to connecting with you on Nextdoor to build stronger, safer neighborhoods throughout Westminster."

More than 30 people commented on Knauerhaze's post, most of them saying some version of welcome and thank you for looking out for us and our safety.

A day after his initial post, the commander was back, sharing a website called CrimeReports.com with Nextdoor users, and explaining how the department loads its data into daily and anyone can check out what's happening around Westminster by going to the site and entering the city's 92683 zip code.

OC Streetcar included among governor's high-priority projects

By JESSICA KWONG

Momentum keeps building for the forthcoming OC Streetcar.

California Gov. Jerry Brown on Friday included Orange County's first modern electric streetcar in a letter identifying 10 high-priority infrastructure projects for the federal government to consider expediting.

The 4.2-mile streetcar project - which would connect the Santa Ana Regional Transportation Center to a new transit hub in Garden Grove - was in the company of express lanes on Interstate 15 in Riverside County and Interstate 10 in San Bernardino County, among other projects.

"These projects will enhance public safety and strengthen our economy," Brown wrote in his letter to President Donald Trump, in response to an executive order to expedite environmental reviews and approval for high-priority projects.

The streetcar's inclusion in the top 10 list - and Brown's list to federal officials earlier this month of 51 large projects to be built in the near future - reinforces it is a

Brown's staff sent the earlier list as requested by the National Governors Association, while the letter Friday was directed to the bridge over the Santa Ana River and its inclusion in the list Friday could expedite the permits review, according to the Orange County Transportation Authority, the project lead.

"OCTA has been working with the Federal Transit Administration each step of the way and are eager to work with the federal government to make the streetcar a reality," OCTA spokesman Eric Carpenter said in an email. "We hope this will help expedite the process."

The $298 million streetcar project, a part of Measure M, the county's half-cent sales tax for transportation improvements, entered the engineering phase in January. It is expected to enter construction in 2018 and begin service in 2020, carrying up to 7,500 passengers daily.

What's in a name? Old Euclid or Main?

Vern Martin recalls the origins of Historic Main Street

By Loreen Berlin

The year was 1966. The Garden Grove Planning Commission proposed making Euclid Street a straight line from north to south. That left a small portion that ran through the original business district with a name dilemma: Should it be called "Old Euclid" or "Main Street?"

The City Council discussed calling that part, just west of Euclid, Old Euclid; however, business owners on that portion of the street had a different idea.

So, with that in mind, on Aug. 23, 1966, Downtown Merchants Association President Vern Martin headed out to a City Council meeting to speak his mind.

He wanted the street in front of merchants display windows to be officially, "Main Street."

Martin, 94, and a veteran of WWII, still remembers.

"I just didn't feel 'Old Euclid' was a good fit for our businesses," said Martin. "It was five 'ayes' and no 'nos.'"

Council members were Reese Ballard, Kay Barr, Louis Lake, Walter Schmit and George Honold.

For more than 50-plus years, it's been Main Street.

Martin, formerly from Brookings, S.D., said his family moved to Long Beach when his father's automobile finance

business "dried up."

Martin didn't move with them. He had enlisted on his 20th birthday and served in the Army Air Corp, 14th Air Force in WWII, headquartered in China. His father was part of the ASTP, an Army Specialized Training Program at South Dakota State College in Brookings, and was the civilian manager of the Post Exchange at the college.

According to the book, "Scholars in Foxholes," by Louis Keefer, during WWII

the U.S. Army operated the largest college education program in the nation's history. The Army Specialized Training Program and reserve program placed more than 200,000 soldiers in 227 colleges to take highly sped-up courses in various branches of engineering, medicine, dentistry, personnel psychology, and 34 different foreign languages.

"I spent a year-and-a-half in the technical training schools in the Army, studying the assembly and operation of radio and was in the top 10-percent of my graduating class in radio mechanics," said Martin. "Then, I was given the opportunity to attend a secret program called 'radar,' where I learned how to repair, install and calibrate a number of radar sets that were airborne in our airplanes."

After graduation from the radar school, Martin was sent to Langley Field Air Force Base in Virginia.

"There, we installed and put into cargo bins, replacement radar equipment that was sent overseas, with each plane having replacement radar equipment in the cargo bin," he said.

Ultimately, Martin was sent to Okinawa by ship; by the time they arrived in Okinawa, both A-bombs had been dropped and so they just waited to go home. That was 1945.

He went to a Vancouver barracks and then to Southern California, where he was honorably discharged and became a civilian again.

Martin's parents were living in Long Beach. The Martin family moved to Garden Grove on Stanford Avenue where they purchased a 2 1/2-acre chicken ranch.

He married Wanda Armour-Martin in 1949; they have been married for 67 years.

In 1947, a vacant building in downtown Garden Grove on what was then Euclid Street became available, so his father, brother and Martin began making the building into a men's clothing store, called "Martin's Men's Store."

That was two doors south of the parking lot on the east side of the street.

"In 1951, we purchased the First National Bank Building on the northwest corner of Garden Grove Boulevard and Euclid Street. We remodeled the building and then moved into that building and called it, 'Martin's Inc. Clothier,' and ran the store for 20 years on Euclid Street and Main Street in two different locations," Martin said.

"In 1967, my parents reached 65 and wanted to retire; I'm colorblind so it wouldn't have been good to continue, and so we sold the store's merchandise," added Martin. "Before the city realigned Garden Grove Boulevard, the building was purchased by the city and then torn down, but there is a commemorative brick in the sidewalk honoring Martin's Clothier."

Martin is currently active in the Garden Grove Historical Society, where he fixes anything that needs repair. He's a member of the Garden Grove Masonic Lodge and he and his wife attend Garden Grove Methodist Church.

In 2010, an "Historic Main Street" sign was put in place at the south end of Main Street at Garden Grove Boulevard, along the archway over Main Street.

Historic Main Street is getting busier and has a lot of activity along the street, starting with the ongoing Friday Night Car Show.

Every Sunday, Historic Main Street is host to a Farmers Market from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., with a wonderful array of fresh vegetables, plants and honey and nuts.

The Elvis Presley Festival — which takes place in August — has become an annual attraction on Historic Main Street, as well.

It's called "The King Lives On."

So does Main Street.

More than 20 trees were knocked down by recent storms in Garden Grove, and some flooding was reported. The Garden Grove Fire Department established unified command with the police and public works departments, and activated the emergency operation center. Additional personnel and equipment from all three departments were brought in to assist in public safety efforts. Due to the centralized command and with the public's help through social media, problem areas were quickly dealt with. "Our success... was a testament to our planning and collaboration with other departments and the community," said Fire Chief Tom Schultz. Above and below, damage from storms is shown.

2 wounded in stabbing

Two people were injured during a domestic dispute involving a sword-wielding suspect, Garden Grove police say.

Police officers were dispatched to the 9700 block of Acacia last week.

An investigation revealed a domestic dispute occurred and during this dispute a male acquaintance, identified as a 21-year-old, arrived at the residence.

The male suspect allegedly attacked the acquaintance with a sword at the front of the residence. The victim was transported to the hospital, where he is in stable condition.

A female resident of the home also sustained an unintended stab wound to the leg while separating the two males. She was treated at a hospital and was admitted for observation, but is listed as stable.

School board to students: You are safe, welcome

Resolution states that GG schools will abide by state and federal law

Orange County News
March 1, 2017

The Garden Grove Unified School District Board of Education unanimously approved Resolution No. 20, reaffirming its ongoing commitment to safe and welcoming schools, at its Feb. 21 meeting.

The resolution cites the United States Supreme Court ruling that no public school shall deny access to education on the basis of immigration status, which is upheld by federal and state law. The resolution serves as an important reminder that district schools will continue to educate and support all students regardless of nation of origin or immigration status.

District serves a diverse population of nearly 45,000 students who speaking more than 48 languages and represent a vast array of nations of origin.

"This resolution provides a reassurance to students and families and lets them know that the Garden Grove Unified School District is and always has been a safe place and a welcoming place for all of our students and their families," said Walter Muneton, Board of Education trustee. "I want all of our students to know that we want them to attend school, every single day, to get the knowledge they need to become good and productive citizens of our great nation, and to go on to college and get good-paying jobs."

According to the resolution, the district shall: 1) Remain a safe and welcoming place for students and families; 2) Treat all students equitably in the receipt of all school services; 3) Refer any families seeking assistance with questions related to their immigration status to community based or legal organizations that provide resources for immigrant families.

"I want to send a personal message to our students that you matter and we care about you," said Teri Rocco, Board of Education trustee. "In these moments of uncertainty and fear, you have to hope and believe that you have a brighter tomorrow. Remain resilient and united; we will get through this together. You are our beloved students and the primary focus of our vision, mission, and goals."

"We take an oath of office to uphold the laws of California and the United States and the law is really clear. It says that from seven in the morning to three in the afternoon, there is no legal or illegal, documented or undocumented, there are just kids and our job is to keep those kids safe and our student records are off limits," said Bob Harden, Board of Education vice president.

The resolution also instructs district staff to distribute copies of the document, translated in Spanish, Vietnamese, and Korean, to all school sites, the district's parent leader organizations, and partner community organizations. The Parent and Community Outreach department will offer additional resources to families including parent workshops to keep the community informed of federal policy and its impact on education.

Governor identifies OC Streetcar as a priority

By Jessica Kwong

Momentum keeps building for the forthcoming OC Streetcar.

California Gov. Jerry Brown on Friday included Orange County's first modern electric streetcar in a letter identifying 10 high-priority infrastructure projects for the federal government to consider expediting.

The 4.2-mile streetcar project - which would connect the Santa Ana Regional Transportation Center to a new transit hub in Garden Grove - was in the company of express lanes on Interstate 15 in Riverside County and Interstate 10 in San Bernardino County, among other projects.

"These projects will enhance public safety and strengthen our economy," Brown wrote in his letter to President Donald Trump, in response to an executive order to expedite environmental reviews and approval for high-priority projects.

The streetcar's inclusion in the top 10 list - and Brown's list to federal officials earlier this month of 51 large projects to be built in the near future - reinforces it is a priority not only for Orange County but for the state.

Brown's staff sent the earlier list as requested by the National Governors Association, while the letter Friday was directed to the federal Council on Environmental Quality.

The streetcar project requires a federal permit to complete a bridge over the Santa Ana River and its inclusion in the list Friday could expedite the permits review, according to the Orange County Transportation Authority, the project lead.

"OCTA has been working with the Federal Transit Administration each step of the way and are eager to work with the federal government to make the streetcar a reality," OCTA spokesman Eric Carpenter said in an email. "We hope this will help expedite the process."

The $298 million streetcar project, a part of Measure M, the county's half-cent sales tax for transportation improvements, entered the engineering phase in January. It is expected to enter construction in 2018 and begin service in 2020, carrying up to 7,500 passengers daily.

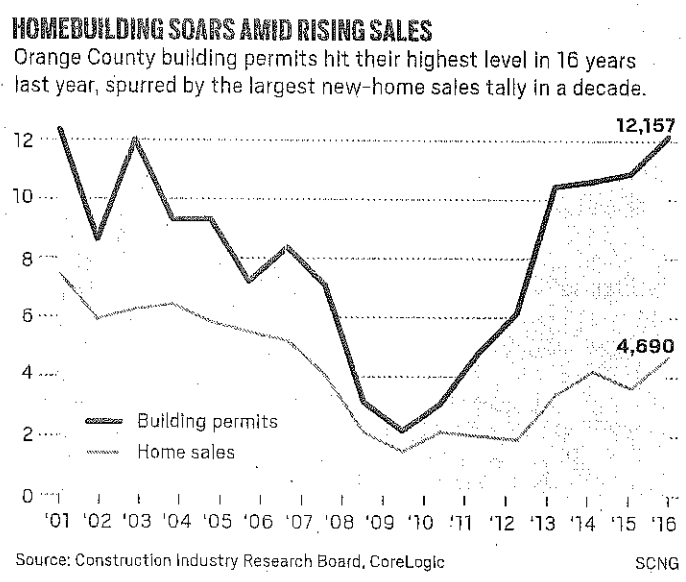

Orange County homebuilding soared in 2016

Homebuilding and new home sales soared in Orange County last year, driven by job growth, rising demand and an abundant supply of new home projects to choose from, industry reports show.

Job growth, low supply and lack of construction in nearby counties drove buyers here, experts say

And O.C. stood apart from neighboring Southern California counties, where construction and sales either grew at a more lackluster pace or declined.

Orange County developers took out 12,157 building permits in 2016, the most since 2000, according to Construction Industry Research Board data.

The last time Orange County saw this many homes being built, Hillary Clinton still was in the White House - as first lady. John Paul II still was the pope. The Sept. 11 terrorist attacks hadn't occurred. And iPods, iPhones and YouTube hadn't been invented.

"This is an anomalous period for Orange County. Beyond the next few years, we may very well never be able to bring on this level of supply again in Orange County."

Figures from the CIRB report, which tracks building permits in the state, also showed:

- Of the 12,000-plus new homes built, 7,962 were condos or apartments. Although CIRB doesn't track how many were for-sale units and how many were rentals, apartments most likely dominated since CoStar figures show there were 10,000 apartments under construction by the end of last year.

- For-sale housing was booming as well. Single-family permits (the best indicator of for-sale activity) totaled 4,195 last year, the most in 12 years.

- Renters and buyers were flocking to absorb all that new product. Even though thousands of new apartments came on the market last year, vacancy rates remained below 4 percent. In addition, Orange County builders sold 4,690 new homes in 2016, CoreLogic figures show. That's the highest new-home sales tally in a decade.

"It's based on a shortfall in housing stock, both resale and new, in the Orange County and L.A. market," said Bill Holford, president of Olson Communities, a Seal Beach-based home-builder. "There's such a shortfall. ... People are clamoring for those (new home) communities."

O.C.'s anomalous rise

Other Southern California counties failed to see a significant increase in new housing or had a decrease.

In Orange County, for example, building permits were up 12 percent from 2015 levels.

Riverside County was the only other in the region to see construction rise, with permits up 5 percent. Construction permits, meanwhile, fell 11 percent in Los Angeles County and 4 percent in San Bernardino County. In the region as a whole, building dropped 3 percent.

New-home centers also were busier at Orange County developments, where sales increased 29 percent, according to CoreLogic. The gain for the rest of Southern California was 8.5 percent.

This is a reversal of building patterns seen during the pre-recession housing boom, when most new-home construction was in the Inland region.

From 2000 through 2004, the Inland region averaged almost 36,000 building permits a year, outstripping Los Angeles County's average of 20,600 permits a year and Orange County's average of 10,300.

Last year, Inland jurisdictions handed out 10,271 permits, compared with Orange County's 12,000 and Los Angeles County's 20,339, the most in the region, but still down 2,500 permits from 2015.

"This is an anomalous period for Orange County," said housing consultant Mark Boud, president of San Clemente-based Real Estate Economics. "Beyond the next few years, we may very well never be able to bring on this level of supply again in Orange County."

Jobs, demand up

What's behind Orange County's building boom?

Experts summed up their answers in two words: supply and demand. Both are up, boosting Orange County home sales.

State figures show Orange County added 31,400 jobs in 2016, equivalent to 2.6 new jobs for every new home built.

"The long-term ratio is 1.4 jobs-to-1.0 home, so demand is about two times higher than supply," Boud said.

In response, developers have been busy.

Orange County is home to four of the largest 19 master-planned communities in the country, and all have accelerated their construction pace, said Irvine-based housing consultant John Burns.

"The two biggest landowners, Irvine Co. and Rancho Mission Viejo, decided to ramp up the volumes dramatically," Burns said. "At the same time, the (Great Park Neighborhoods) in Irvine and Baker Ranch in Lake Forest offered more homes for sale than ever before."

Sales nearly doubled to 535 transactions at the Great Park Neighborhoods, the ninth-highest tally among the nation's 50 top-selling master-planned communities, according to a ranking by Burns' firm, John Burns Real Estate Consulting.

Sales at Rancho Mission Viejo's Esencia development near San Juan Capistrano increased 52 percent to 458 homes last year, the 16th-highest sales tally in the nation; and Baker Ranch ranked 19th after sales rose 26 percent to 448.

The Irvine Co.'s developments ranked first among U.S. master-planned communities with 1,989 homes sold last year, up 19 percent, Burns' ranking showed.

"Demand in Orange County is extraordinary," said Dan Kelly, a senior vice president with Rancho Mission Viejo, the South County landholding firm behind the development of Sendero and Esencia and, in years past, Mission Viejo and Ladera Ranch. "... The community has come together (at Rancho Mission Viejo) far more rapidly than we ever thought it would."

High demand, low supply

Los Angeles County and the Inland region, on the other hand, "do not have any notable master plans," Burns said. There is plenty of demand there, he said, "just no supply."

Apart from Antelope Valley, developable land is scarce in Los Angeles County, Boud said.

In the Inland region, commuter headaches caused by infrastructure improvements along the 91, I-15 and 60 freeways are hampering demand, as are tighter mortgage qualification standards, he added.

"Once these infrastructural improvements are completed, more housing demand will likely flow to the Inland Empire," Boud said. "But for now, it remains stymied."

Orange County, on the other hand, remains extremely attractive to homebuyers, Rancho Mission Viejo's Kelly said. And given the limited number of existing homes for sale, more buyers are turning to the new home market.

New homes offer better architecture, more natural lighting and wiring that can handle all the electronics found in modern homes, such as electric-vehicle charging stations, he said.

"You add it all up, it's a very compelling story," Kelly said. "I would say the builders are going, not at the hyper-frenzied pace of the (boom), but at a substantial and steady pace that is very strong."

Enroll your child in school,

starting today

Pre-enrollment for fall 2017/18 full-day transitional kindergarten and full-day kindergarten classes in the Garden Grove Unified School District begins today, Feb. 22.

Parents should pre-enroll online as early as possible at <https://enroll.ggusd.us> and contact their child's home school for further assistance. All district elementary school offices will be closed throughout the summer and will resume enrollment when the offices reopen in the fall.

Transitional kindergarten is provided at all district elementary schools and is the first year of a two-year kindergarten program. Transitional kindergarten features a modified kindergarten curriculum with lessons that are age and developmentally appropriate.

The daily, half-day sessions will include whole group and small group discussion and independent and hands-on learning. Participation in transitional kindergarten is voluntary; however, the district strongly encourages the enrollment of all eligible children because an additional year of learning will provide a stronger foundation for building academic success in school.

For the 2017/18 school year, children entering kindergarten must turn 5 on or before Sept. 1, 2017. A child may be admitted to transitional kindergarten only if the child's birthday falls between Sept. 2 and Dec. 2, 2012.

There are no exceptions to the minimum age requirements for transitional kindergarten or kindergarten. However, if your child does not meet the minimum age requirement for enrollment at the beginning of the school year, at any time during the year, when he or she turns 5, you may enroll them in kindergarten or transitional kindergarten, as determined by the best placement for your child.

For transitional kindergarten or kindergarten enrollment, parents are required to present one of the following documents to the school office as proof of the child's birth date: certified copy of the birth record; statement of the local registrar/county recorder certifying the date of birth; baptism certificate duly attested; passport; immigration visa; or an affidavit from the parent, guardian, or custodian of the minor when no other document is obtainable.

Before children can be legally enrolled in school, California law also requires they receive the following immunizations: the MMR series — red measles (rubeola), mumps, German measles (rubella); the DTP series — diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough (pertussis); polio; Hepatitis B; and chicken pox (varicella).

The requirement for the chicken pox immunization may be waived if a health care provider documents immunity. Contact the local school for specific immunization dosage requirements.

Immunizations are available from private medical providers or at clinics maintained by the Orange County Health Care Agency, at 714-834-4722.

Children are required by state law to receive a full physical exam, which includes a tuberculosis risk assessment and test, if indicated, within 18 months of entering first grade.

Parents should arrange for this checkup with their pediatrician, at which time, the child must obtain a TB test if indicated and update any required immunizations. To satisfy first-grade admission requirements, the physical must not be completed earlier than March 1 of this year. All required forms are available from the school office.

Along with the immunization requirements, all children must receive a dental check-up by May 31 in either kindergarten or first-grade, whichever is his or her first year in public school.

Oral health assessments administered up to 12 months before a child enters school also satisfy this requirement. The assessment must be performed by a licensed dentist and/or other licensed or registered dental health professional.

An "Oral Health Assessment/Waiver Request" form, available in the school office, must be completed by the parent or dental professional and returned to the school. Contact school offices for additional information.

Information on school attendance areas is available online by accessing the "Find-a-School" link from the main district website www.ggusd.us, at any district elementary school, or by calling the Office of Student Services at 714-663-6391. Address verification is required for all incoming students.

LEGISLATION AND POLICY AFFECTING CALIFORNIA CITIES

SB 1 Passes Out of Senate Transportation and Housing Committee
Next Hearing Set for Feb. 22 in Senate Environmental Quality Committee

League-supported SB 1 (Beall) successfully cleared its first of three policy committees on Tuesday afternoon. Members of the Fix Our Roads Coalition, of which the League is a founding member, testified in support of Sen. Jim Beall's (D-San Jose) bill that generates an additional $6 billion annually for California's local and state transportation network. For more, see Page 2.

Upcoming Legislative Hearings of Interest to Cities Feb. 22 – March 7

The Legislature continues to hold a number of oversight and informational hearings on a variety of policy areas of interest to cities. Today is the bill introduction deadline, which means that the number of legislative hearings will ramp up by early March. For more, see Page 2.

One Week Left to Register for the 2017 Public Works Officers Institute & Expo

Rony Berdugo, who testified in support on behalf of the League of California Cities, stressed to the committee that "we used to take pride in our infrastructure, but now our California roads consistently rank as some of the worst in the nation, costing drivers and consumers more than $760 in annual repairs." Californians cannot afford to wait any longer for the passage of a meaningful transportation funding package. The system that California residents, businesses and visitors rely on is crumbling. It comes down to pave now or pay more later.

Sen. Beall reminded committee members that it is crucial that California steps away from the cliff of crumbling road conditions. State and local roads have a maintenance backlog of $130 billion and California motorists are spending more than $700 annually on car repairs due to pothole-filled roads. This backlog is divided between $59 billion for state highways and $73 billion for local streets, roads, and bridges. Without additional funding, this shortfall is projected to grow by $20 billion in the next decade.

SB 1 now goes to the Senate Environmental Quality Committee where it will be heard on Tuesday, Feb. 22 at 9:30 a.m. Each committee hearing moves the Legislature closer to meeting Gov. Jerry Brown's April 6 deadline to pass comprehensive transportation package.

California City Solutions: American Canyon Partners with The Coca-Cola Company on Water Replenishment and Conservation Goal

This story is part of an ongoing series featuring Helen Putnam Award entries. The 2016 entries are available on the League's website as a resource for cities in a searchable database called California City Solutions. American Canyon's Pipe Bursting Project was submitted in 2016 for the Public Works, Infrastructure, and Transportation award category.

The city of American Canyon focuses on innovative solutions to manage its public works infrastructure while ensuring sustainability for future generations. Since 2007, the city has maintained a Zero Water Footprint (ZWF) policy to help achieve water conservation goals. Two events in 2015 prompted the city to create a partnership to complete its pipe bursting project. The Coca-Cola Company, the city's largest customer, had a contract up for renewal and Gov. Jerry Brown declared a State of Emergency (Executive Order B2915) related to the ongoing statewide drought. The partnership created between American Canyon's Public Works Department and Coca-Cola resulted in a renewed service agreement that provides the city with financial stability for years to come. In conjunction with the new agreement, the parties completed a "community water partnership project." The project included replacing the 7,000 feet of existing pipeline that had begun severely leaking in numerous locations (totaling upwards of 200 gallons per minute).

American Canyon's ZWF policy requires that any new or additional demands to the city's water system — whether residential, business, commercial or agricultural — offset their planned water usage on a 1:1 basis. The policy also includes addressing existing, deficient infrastructure (including leaking waterlines) that has surpassed its useful life.

The Coca-Cola Company has operated a 350,000 square foot facility in American Canyon since 1994. Its contract with the city came up for renewal for the first time in 2015. The American Canyon facility employs more than 500 people and produces more than 100,000,000 gallons of non-carbonated beverages each year (approximately 288 acre-feet in 2015).

Facing consecutive years of drought, American Canyon implemented numerous strategies to conserve water. Shortly after the Governor declared a drought emergency in April 2015, the American Canyon City Council adopted Emergency Regulations by the State Water Resources Control Board and local water use restrictions. At the outset of the agreement renewal process in spring 2015, city staff explained both the ZWF policy and the forthcoming local water use restrictions to Coca-Cola representatives. Although renewal of the agreement was not subject to the ZWF policy (because no increase in demands were sought) the company expressed interest in helping the city improve the sustainability of its water supply, which is consistent with the company's corporate water replenishment goal to replenish supplies used at their facilities worldwide on a 1:1 basis by the year 2020.

American Canyon employs prudent water use restrictions, tiered water consumption rates and has expanded its recycled water infrastructure (to replace nonessential potable water uses wherever possible). The city also intensified its leak detection and repair program, and was facing the most ambitious and challenging project replacement of 7,000 feet of 14-inch steel transmission pipeline to stop major water leakage.

The project between American Canyon and Coca-Cola faced a number of challenges:

- Funding was needed to complete the project;
- Planning logistics was important in order to insure drivers' safety;
- Scheduling and timelines were vital to completing the project efficiently; and
- Obtaining approvals from Caltrans and various resource agencies to ensure that construction could begin in late fall 2015.

The pipeline was located within the cavity of the old pipeline that serves both the facility and the city as a whole. The city had never previously used the "pipe bursting" method to repair leaking waterlines but decided to employ it to quickly and efficiently eliminate the leaks with minimal impact to existing customers, motorists (on the adjacent roadway) and the environment. Pipe bursting is a state-of-the-art, trenchless construction method to replace pipelines. The process works by fracturing the old pipe from the inside while simultaneously pulling a new pipe inside the cavity that has been created. The city oversaw construction which started in late September 2015.

The city maintains an ongoing, open dialogue with its large customers, including Coca-Cola, about its water supply situation. The business community is engaged through biweekly city manager updates and lunchtime workshops held jointly with the Chamber of Commerce on a quarterly basis. This regular community engagement was critical to disseminating accurate information during the drought emergency. It also built trust and faith amongst these business leaders that city officials are proactively addressing the city's water supply situation and as a result, building a unique public-private partnership with Coca-Cola which provided financial resources to help the city replenish its water supply.

The city also obtained permits from Caltrans and the Army Corps of Engineers to complete the project. These permits often take months (or years) to obtain approval; however, due to the statewide drought emergency the city was able to fast track the permitting process. This was accomplished by engaging the agencies early in the planning process (June 2015) and working collaboratively with their representatives to identify a streamlined permitting process that would allow for construction to begin in October 2015. The city explained to the agencies that the most appropriate best practices would be utilized in order to mitigate any potential concerns, including hiring a biologist to monitor the site for potential biological resources throughout the duration of construction. In addition, the city placed advanced construction area warning signs and provided continuous onsite inspection and monitoring of traffic conditions. The financing allowed American Canyon to reserve its Water Fund reserves, ensuring that the city's General Fund does not need to subsidize the project.

Work was completed in mid-January 2016. On Feb. 2, 2016, the city approved the renewal agreement with Coca-Cola and Coca-Cola committed to fund 100 percent of the project at a cost of $1,500,000.

The project resulted in a reduction of 200 to 300 acre-feet of water pumped by the State Water Project from the Delta to American Canyon with multifaceted environmental benefits. For example, the reduction in pumping will translate into an energy saving of approximately 60,000 kWh each year, thereby reducing greenhouse gas emissions associated with energy production. It also aligns with the conservation goals outlined in California's State Wildlife Action Plan to improve conservation and restoration of habitat for 22 endangered species, including the Salt Harvest Mouse and Delta Smelt by reducing water exports from the Delta. Allowing this water to remain in the Delta (instead being pumped to American Canyon, only to be lost as leak) maximizes the effort to protect and restore critical habitat.

American Canyon has successfully improved its public works infrastructure and water delivery by adapting a sustainable procedure to address a longstanding issue.
